

WILLIAM R. DAY DIES FROM LUNG COMPLICATIONS

Appointed to Supreme Court by President Roosevelt in 1903 Where He Served Until Last Year

PERFECT DIPLOMAT

President McKinley Said of Him as Secretary of State That He "Absolutely Never Made a Mistake"

Mackinac Island, Mich., July 9. — William R. Day, former associate justice of the United States supreme court, died at his cottage here at 5:30 this morning. With him at the time was his son, William L. Day, and the latter wife.

The body of Mr. Day was taken late today to Canton, O.

The former justice had been ill for about 10 days and several days ago physicians gave up hope for his recovery. Death was due to lung complications following an attack of pneumonia in Washington about three years ago.

Long Notable Figure

William R. Day had been a notable figure in the national government for more than a quarter of a century, serving conspicuously both in executive and judicial capacities.

Brought to Washington in 1897 by President McKinley, who appointed him assistant secretary of state. He subsequently was advanced to the secretaryship and later was appointed to the supreme court, from which he resigned in November, 1922, to become umpire of the mixed claims commission set up to settle claims arising from the war. From this post also he resigned on May 15 last, after it had developed that the requirements of the bench, where he had worked tirelessly for 19 years, had greatly impaired his health.

Man of Great Learning

He then went to his home in Ohio as one of the three justices of the supreme court on its retired list.

While he did not specialize in any particular branch of the law while at the supreme court, he was recognized as a great learning and was selected to deliver some of the court's most important decisions, notably in the United States v. McKim and the Southern Pacific Central Pacific.

He wrote the deciding opinion in the case of the United States Steel Corporation case, decided in March, 1920, when the court divided four to three.

The name of William R. Day is indelibly linked with that of William McKinley. When the latter was elected President, Justice Day was little known outside of Ohio, where he was born in 1849. He had graduated from the University of Michigan, studied law in a law office, taken a few law lectures, and began the practice of his profession. He had been elected judge of the common pleas court in Stark county, Ohio, when 37 years of age and in 1893, President Harrison had offered him the position of judge of the district court for the northern district of Ohio, but ill health forbade his accepting.

Marvellous Diplomat

Shortly after the election in 1897, President McKinley let it be known that he would make John Sherman, then old and near the end of his career, secretary of state, and that he would name his fellow-townsmen, William R. Day, assistant secretary of state.

It is doubtful if the new assistant secretary of state had ever met a foreign ambassador until he came to Washington in 1897. Sherman could not carry many of the burdens of his office. The untrained diplomat in the second position in the department had to shoulder the responsibility of the department in such a way as not to offend his superior. How well he filled the office, and a year later the office that Sherman had occupied as secretary of state was expressed later by McKinley when he said: "Day absolutely never made a mistake."

It fell to Secretary of State Day to attempt to avoid the crash with Spain over Cuba. The shrewd moves to avert war were his. To him later came the work of restoring peace. President McKinley selected him as chairman of the commission of the United States to meet the commissioners of Spain in drafting a treaty to end the war. The treaty of Paris is a monument to him.

Appointed to Supreme Court

With this duty over, President McKinley named him a circuit judge of the United States for the fifth circuit. Here he served, until President Roosevelt appointed him to the bench of the supreme court of the United States in 1903.

A man of might build with a thin face, Justice Day never enjoyed robust health. Once he had to give up work for half a year in order to recuperate in the peace of northern Michigan. A great student, this Ohio man was extremely reticent. Probably the only intimate man he allowed to share his inner thoughts was President McKinley. So reticent was he that he was known generally as "the silent man."

Justice Day was not fond of public life. He was elevated to the bench because he was known generally as "the silent man."

Justice Day was not fond of public life. He was elevated to the bench because he was known generally as "the silent man."

MINERS REFUSE TO ENTER AGREEMENT

Operators Want Them to Continue Work After September 1 in Case of Disagreement

Atlantic City, July 9. — The anthracite mine workers of Pennsylvania today refused to enter into an immediate understanding with the coal operators that the production of coal shall continue uninterrupted after August 31 in the event that a new contract shall not have been negotiated by that time with the understanding that the agreement subsequently arrived at shall be retroactive to September 1. The miners contended that there is ample time to work out an agreement if each side diligently applies itself to the task.

The coal operators paralleled the announcement of the U. S. Steel corporation that they would make every effort to eliminate the 12-hour day "as soon as practicable and as far as practicable." This was one of the demands of the miners.

Operators Don't Refuse

While the operators did not specifically refuse the demands of a wage increase for contract miners and men employed by the day, they declared that the present compensation of the men was commensurate with the value of the service rendered and that they were proud of the present wage because they were the highest ever paid the men in the anthracite industry.

The coal companies granted without argument the demand that when the anthracite board of conciliation is deadlocked over a grievance and it has been submitted to the umpire, a decision must be rendered in 30 days.

IMMIGRATION LAW CHANGES EXPECTED

Commissioner Curran's Observations Cause Him to Suggest Alterations

New York, July 9. — Henry H. Curran, in office for a week and one day as immigration commissioner at Ellis Island, announced tonight he would go to Washington in the near future to suggest changes in the immigration law.

The announcement that he would go to Washington was made in a statement from Mr. Curran in which he replied to an attack on conditions at Ellis Island by Baroness Marie de Lillier Steinhilber of Russia, who concealed her identity and passed three days in immigrants' quarters. The baroness, who said she had been in Russian prisons and worked as a barmaid while trying to find out what the Red army had done with her husband, asserted she had "been through worse things than Ellis Island town of Babel, but never have I been forced to such filthy and such unhygienic conditions."

Immigrants' Office at Fault

Commissioner Curran, in his statement, said many of the immigrants attached officials on the island for conditions which they created themselves.

"If a persons snore in a Pullman car," he said, "other passengers blame the sleeper, not the railroad company. But on the island, officials are blamed for conditions caused by the immigrants themselves."

FRANCE DOES NOT CELEBRATE WAR VICTORY ANNIVERSARIES

WILL SERVE INJUNCTIONS ON JITNEYS

Schenectady Railway Company Is Providing Adequate Service to Citizens, Declares Justice E. M. Angell

LUNN QUILTS PROBE

Lieutenant Governor Exasperated at Position of Returned Strikers to Retain Seniority Then Gained

Schenectady, July 9. — Operators of jitney buses competing with the Schenectady Railway company since May 17 during a strike on local traction lines, are restrained from further operations through an injunction granted today by Supreme Court Justice Edward M. Angell. The order is made returnable August 23 before Justice Angell at special term in Canton.

The order affects operations of jitney buses not only in this city, but in the suburbs between Albany, Troy and Saratoga Springs along lines of the railway company. It declares that the company is furnishing adequate service on all lines and that the operation of jitneys is without the consent of the public service commission, as specified by the transportation corporation law.

Strike Injunction Tomorrow

Company attorneys said tonight the injunction would be served Wednesday morning, but that no attempt would be made to reach every jitney operator in person. They explained that service of the order on a few, with attendant publicity, would bind all affected. If the injunction is violated, attorneys added, applications at once will be made for contempt of court proceedings.

The refusal of 20 employers of the Schenectady Railway company, who went on strike but returned to work, to surrender seniority rights gained by this action was given in a statement tonight by Lieutenant Governor George R. Lunn, former mayor of this city, as his reason for abandoning efforts to effect a permanent settlement of local traction difficulties. Mr. Lunn for some time has been endeavoring to bring about a settlement of the strike, conferring with officials of the company and of the striking carmen's union.

"We are not for the selfish attitude of these men," the statement declared. "The strike could have been settled at once. The men would not agree, so there is nothing for us to do except to let them go on in their fight."

Mr. Burke said he was ready to waive immunity and tell the grand jury what little he knew about the operations of the firm.

Partner Ran Business

Mr. Burke said he had had practically nothing to do with the routine operations of the firm, leaving all that to Lewis M. Kardos, Jr., his partner. He said he had insisted on a clause in the partnership agreement stipulating that the firm would not itself engage in speculation, but thought this agreement was being lived up to.

When some one mentioned the fact that Mr. Burke recently had been in ill health, he broke in: "I can't get sick. I've got work, and hard work now."

Assistant District Attorney Geraty announced after questioning Mr. Burke at length, that the evidence against Kardos and Burke would be placed before the grand jury next Monday.

Nitti, a truck farmer, disappeared from his farm last July, and his body was found in May in a catch basin near Stickney. In the meantime, his farm hand on Nitti's farm, were married. The state contends that Nitti was beaten to death with a hammer and his body thrown into the catch basin by Crudelle and Mrs. Nitti. # ERIE YIELDS UP BODY OF LIEUT. ROTH

Pilot of Naval Balloon Strapped to Basket of Craft, Clad Only in Underwear; Dies of Exposure

COMPANION MISSING

No Trace of Lieut. Null Found; Officer Apparently Had Cut Bag Loose in Effort to Thwart Elements

Fort Stanley, Ont., July 9. — Lake Erie today yielded up the body of Lieutenant L. J. Roth, pilot of the ill-fated U. S. navy balloon, A-569, Strapped to the basket of the balloon, and clad only in his underwear, around which had been tied a life preserver, Roth's body was found in the basket this morning, 14 miles off here, by Captain George Wilson, master of a fishing boat.

Apparently caught in the terrific storm of last Thursday night, Lieutenant Roth evidently took the precaution to strap himself to the side of the basket after divesting himself of his clothing, and then cut the basket loose from the gas bag, trusting to the buoyancy devices with which the basket was equipped to keep it afloat.

How long the basket was buffeted about the lake after the bag was cut loose, could not be conjectured, but the condition of Lieutenant Roth's body indicated that he died of exposure. His head and shoulders were hanging over the edge of the basket. Identification of the body as that of Roth was established by the stenciled initials "L. J. R." in the underwear. Airplanes from Selfridge field, flying boats from Cleveland and Detroit, a revenue cutter and various other swift moving craft had searched the lake for nearly three days without success. The basket contained nothing to give any clue of when misfortune overtook the two aeronauts.

Balloons Encounter Storms

Indianapolis, July 9. — Finding of the body of Lieutenant T. J. Roth in Lake Erie today brought a tragic close to the national balloon race, so far as the Indianapolis race was concerned.

now is centered on Lieutenant T. B. Null, who accompanied Lieutenant Roth in the ill-fated navy air craft. The balloon which carried Lieutenants Roth and Null was the ninth to take off here. It created unusual attention because of its rapid rise, as compared with the other bags which had preceded it. Lieutenant Roth was overheard to remark that on one other occasion when he bore No. 9 in a race, he encountered storms and danger.

Hard rains and thunderstorms preceded the race and continued intermittently throughout the time most of the balloons were in the air. Practically every pilot reported having drifted into or being overtaken by severe wind and rain storms. Several brought their crafts to the grounds because of the elements.

GIVE MRS. BUZZI DEATH SENTENCE

Guilty of Murdering Schneider; Will Appeal, Automatically Staying Execution

New York, July 9. — Mrs. Anna Buzzi was taken to Auburn prison this afternoon to await execution in the electric chair at Sing Sing for the murder of her lover, Frederick Schneider, a wealthy Bronx contractor.

Sentenced this morning by Supreme Court Justice O'Malley, Mrs. Buzzi calmly made a statement to the court protesting her innocence, and as calmly walked out.

Although Justice O'Malley set the date for her execution as the week of August 6, Mrs. Buzzi probably will not pay the death penalty for a year. It also was known. Her counsel gave notice of an appeal which acts as an automatic stay of execution, pending the long drawn out court proceedings. If the appeal fails, Mrs. Buzzi's friends are planning to appeal to Governor Smith for a commutation of her sentence.

If Mrs. Buzzi does eventually pay the penalty in the electric chair at Sing Sing she will be the third woman to die there since the chair was installed in 1923.

Lieutenant Lands in Pasture 10 Miles From Field, Breaking Landing Gear; Abandons Flight

ENGINE GOES WRONG

2 Hours and Half Behind Schedule; Lost in Fog Over Allegheny Mountains; Trip One of Trail Blazing

(By the Associated Press.)

St. Joseph, Mo., July 9. — Lieutenant Russell L. Maughan, army aviator who was forced to abandon his down-dusk New York to San Francisco flight near St. Joseph today, attempted another flight would be attempted within a week.

Lieutenant Maughan will fly back to New York Wednesday or Thursday of this week, he said, in the plane which broke down at Avenue City, about nine miles northeast of St. Joseph. The plane is undergoing repairs and Maughan believed it would be in condition by tomorrow night. A clog in the gas line of his engine caused Maughan's first trouble, he said.

Lieutenant Maughan, estimated he made approximately 1,350 miles in nine hours. He said that he was lost in a fog for 25 miles, and stated that he feared he would never see his route but hated to lose any time by slowing down. He made several trial flights to go above or around the fog, but it seemed to envelop him completely.

Army Officers Disappointed

Mitchell Field, July 9. — Disappointment was expressed by army officers at Mitchell Field, where Lieutenant Russell L. Maughan took off early this morning on an attempted down-dusk flight across country when notified by the Associated Press of the aviator's forced landing near Avenue City, Mo.

Major W. R. Weaver later received official information of the mishap over the air service's leased wire to Mitchell Field and to the war department at Washington.

"We share in your disappointment," Major Weaver said in a letter wired Maughan at St. Joseph.

William S. Moore, a Field

St. Joseph, Mo., July 9. — "I am not discouraged," said Lieutenant Maughan after he had been forced to land. "I am quite satisfied with the result so far. I was going good except for getting lost in the fog over the Allegheny mountains. If I had had only five minutes more I could have landed in the air field and my mechanics could have fixed me up. I could have proceeded."

Although Lieutenant Maughan was forced to land on a farm at 12:03 p. m., it was more than one hour before his mechanics at Rosecrans municipal field hurried to his assistance in motor cars.

Motor trouble which made its appearance when he was within a five-minute spin of the St. Joseph air field, caused him to land, Maughan said. Maughan said the motor had been running in the order when he was St. Joseph in the distance. About the time he could see the municipal field the engine went wrong and he was forced to pick a pasture to alight.

Two and a Half Hours Late

In striking the ground the landing gear was crushed, making further flight impossible. A welding machine was carried from here and the machine will be repaired where it landed. Then it will be brought here to await orders from Mitchell field.

Lieutenant Maughan failed to keep up with his time. At Dayton he was 1 hour and 25 minutes late. When he was forced down he was 55 minutes further behind his schedule.

The purpose of the flight was to blaze a trail for the possible transportation of troops and supplies of munitions across the continent in event of war. Proper sites for the establishment of landing fields to aid in development of commercial aviation, another object in view. Preparations had been completed at San Francisco to provide for the landing of the airplane at the end of the flight. Anti-aircraft searchlights of the coast defense had been installed.

GOLF

POSITION OF BALL

"SHOVEL" IT OUT SAND AND ALL—WITH A HEAVY NIBBLICK

HIT THE SAND NOT THE BALL

What is your advice to the average golfer when in a sand trap?

Answered by TOM KERRIGAN

Professional, Shrewsbury County club, Mt. Vernon, N. Y. A consistent place winner in his tournament. In British Open, 1921, he finished third, two points behind Hutchinson and Webster, tied for 3rd.

Always aim to get out of the trap in one stroke. The proper club to use is a heavy niblick, and the proper way to play the shot is to hit the sand behind the ball, not the ball. The closer the player is to the hole, the more sand he must take.

PUTT BY MOVING ARMS ONLY

1. DON'T TWIST WRIST

2. DON'T SWING AT KNEES

What are several common faults which make for inaccurate putting?

Answered by PHIL GAUDIN

Medalist, British open championship; Captain of British international golf team; member of that team for eight consecutive years. Winner of numerous foreign tournaments, including Manchester Guardian trophy.

Very often the makings of a good putt are destroyed by two things: (1) swinging the body in the direction of the cup, at the knees and hips, just before the ball is hit, and (2) allowing the hands to drop in back of the club just before the blow is struck. The body must be steady when putting with practically all of the motion in the arms. There cannot be good putting with an unsteady body.

Diamond Chops

Because they played in a game of baseball against the Boston Red Sox, three members of the Holy Cross team face disqualification next season when they report for practice. The men are Captain Simendinger, center fielder; Ryan, catcher; and Tunney, pitcher. Simendinger and Ryan were with Stamford last year.

The Utica Arabian Knights shut out Tannersville, 7 to 0, at Utica Sunday. The contest was a beautiful pitcher's battle between Steve Foster of Utica and Brown of Tannersville for six innings, but in the seventh the Knights got their bats going and smashed three runs. In the latter innings Brown's support cracked and the Knights pushed four more men around.

Bridwell celebrated his 100th birthday by going fishing yesterday.

They say that Ferry is going to give Paddock some lessons in running when the world beater comes here to lecture during the Chautauque week. It is our opinion that if Paddock were inspired as Ferry was upon a particular occasion he could do the hundred in nothing flat.

McKean will probably be on the mound this afternoon. Mills, son of the famous "Billy" Mills, who carved around these pastures in bygone years, will undoubtedly be on the mound for the Knights.

If today's game is anything like Saturday's, the fans will get their money's worth and then some. Folks here's umpiring seems to please both players and fans. Will wonders never cease?

If you haven't seen VanDyke, the new second baseman, in action, you'd better drift around this afternoon. He looks pretty good from the press box.

STAMFORD TO REORGANIZE

Mountain Village Will Put Strong Team in Field in New Future.

A thorough reorganization of the Stamford baseball team caused a postponement of the game scheduled to be played between the Mountainers and the Giants at Neahwa park yesterday afternoon. The Stamford umpire, whose real name is Keating and who is a brother of the Stamford center fielder, will manage the team, although Driscoll will retain control of the finances.

The stars of the present aggregation will be retained and other players of equal caliber added. Several men are under consideration. Stamford wants a real ball team and has resolved to shape one together. The new manager is a man with considerable baseball experience and fans in the mountain village are expecting that he will put a team into the field in the very near future that will make Mountaineers and other rivals hostile for victory.

St. Mary's Beats Toddsville

St. Mary's ball team defeated the Toddsville team at that village on Sunday by a 3 to 5 score. St. Mary's ace, struck out 15 of the opposing batters. Carr received his earnings. G. Smith and C. Smith were in the points for Toddsville.

GREY LAG HAS BECOME CHAMPION

Grey Lag, Ace of Ramocas Stable, With Jockey Earl Sande U.

While the gallant Exterminator is browsing in the salt breezes of the peaceful Virginia tidewater, his place in the thoroughbred racing sun has been usurped by Grey Lag, ace of the Ramocas stable.

This five-year-old son of Star Shoot and Miss Minnie, raised at Walter Jeffords' breeding establishment in Maryland, and trained by the astute Sam Elliford, has become America's greatest handicapper horse.

This was the title held by Exterminator until he went lame at Havre de Grace recently and was turned out for the summer. These two great horses may never meet again, but the chances are, that if they do, the more youthful Grey Lag would be more likely to win.

Exterminator is now in his eighth year—an age that a vast majority of racers never reach, with their best form. Grey Lag is three years younger and coming on.

Record Proves Claim.

The record of Grey Lag for the last two years proves his claim to the handicap title. In his last 11 races, he was defeated but twice, once by Exterminator on June 10, 1932, and more recently by Snob II, his nearest rival, on May 19, last.

Grey Lag was not quite ready for

CATCHER CAN ASSIST CONTROL OF PITCHER

Many Things Backstop Can Do to Help Win Games.

(By CARL LUNDGREN, Baseball Coach, University of Illinois.)

The catcher should make a good target of himself for the pitcher to throw at. Oftentimes a pitcher may be missing the plate either inside or outside continually; move a little in the opposite direction. He may be pitching too high; keep your body a little lower. These things may help his control considerably.

Make a target of yourself on the home plate for your outfielders to throw at. Take throws as near the plate as possible from the outfield or as near the base line as possible when there is a base runner to be tagged.

Practice throwing the mask from your head rapidly in order to go after foul flies. Learn to judge where they are going as soon as they leave the bat and go after them fast, always remembering that unless the wind stops them they always come back toward the diamond due to the English given to the ball by the bat.

Back up first base on throws from the second baseman and on double plays where the first man is retired at second base.

Return the ball to the pitcher at about the height of his shoulders in such a way that it is easy to handle. Never do the ball back to him carelessly, but put it back to him quickly.

With runners on first and third, practice breaking up the double steal by means of a long throw to second to get the base runner or by a very good bluff to second by which you hope to draw the base runner on third towards home and so catch him between bases. A sharp throw to the pitcher may also be used.

The catcher should always be alert to pick a man off on the bases. Many base runners are exceedingly careless about returning to the bases. A wide awake catcher with a good snap throw will get many outs in this fashion.

Major League Teams Pleased With Florida

The Washington club has signed an agreement to train in Tampa for the next five years, and all the cities in Florida now entertaining major league clubs are endeavoring to line them up to long-term contracts, as part of the plan for that spring "Cactus League." President Roberts of the Brooklyn club has bought property near Clearwater and plans to spend his winter in Florida, which probably means the Dodgers will be tenants at Clearwater for some years to come.

Cy Williams Is One of Philadelphia Mainstays

Cy Williams is nearly thirty-five years of age and is as hairless as a billiard ball, but he can still play the game. Barring, perhaps, Jim Thorpe, there never was a greater all-around athlete in the big leagues than the potato grower from Three Rivers. While he was learning biology and sociology in Notre Dame he was cracking a lot of records in the hurdles, broad jump and springs.

Cy will be one of Fletcher's mainstays in Philadelphia this season, just as he has been the mainstay of every team with which he ever played, a mainstay who has never risen to the complete limit of stardom.

The reason lies in his temperament, which is equable and somewhat phlegmatic. Had Williams possessed Ty Cobb's flaming spirit and his own great athletic gift, no player in the country would have achieved a finer record.

Small Admissions Cause of Soccer Popularity

The prices explain why the soccer games draw so well in Great Britain. At the English cup final in the new Wembley park, adjacent to London, in which Bolton Wanderers beat West Ham United, two goals to none, there were 24,500 seats in the grand stand selling from five to 21 shillings, 6,779 front ring seats at five shillings, 24,321 standing room in inclosures at three shillings each, and 57,005 standing room on terraces at two shillings, a total of 123,591. Nearly 200,000 fans tried to see the games.

Terry McGovern Was Tricked by Corbett

Young Corbett, an unknown when he tricked the great Terry McGovern, at Hartford, pointed on Terry's dressing room door as he passed, shouting: "Come on out, Terry, and take your beating!" McGovern, accustomed to having his opponents scared to death at the very prospect of meeting him, was dumfounded. He leaped from his cot, hurried into the ring and received the first lamination of his belt must come. Corbett landed on the rickety Terry in the second round after a furious encounter.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Relieved of Nervousness and Other Troubles by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"I first took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound four years ago, and am taking it now for the Change of Life and other troubles and I receive great benefit from it. I am willing to let you use my letter as a testimonial because it is the truth. I found your book-let in my letter box and read it carefully, and that is how I came to take the Vegetable Compound myself. It has given me quiet nerves so that I sleep all night, and a better appetite. I have recommended it already to all my friends and relatives."—Mrs. ENGLEMAN, 2022 Palmetto St., Ridgewood, Brooklyn, N. Y.

For the woman suffering from nervous troubles causing sleeplessness, headache, hysteria, "the blues," Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will be found a splendid medicine. For the woman of middle age who is passing through the trials of that period, it can be depended upon to relieve the troubles common at that time. You should give it a fair trial now.

Museum Seeking Last of Cigar Store Indians

New York.—John Cotton Dana, director of the Newark museum, is having some difficulty in finding one of the ancient race of wooden Indians, who up until ten years ago used to stand at the door of almost every tobacco store in the city, a tomahawk raised in one hand, a bunch of cigars clutched in the other.

James Campbell, who died on Feb. 12, 1923, was the man who carved many of those figures. He cut most of them out with a hatchet. He never explained why the big chief was always represented in such a menacing attitude. Perhaps he was after the man who gave him the cigars, perhaps he was defending them.

There are five known cigar-store Indians in New York city at the present time.

FARM SEWAGE SYSTEM.

State Agricultural College Publishes Important Bulletin.

Ithaca, July 9.—Requests for information on the proper disposal of sewage have led the state agricultural college here to publish a new edition of a bulletin which explains the dangers of old fashioned methods of disposing of kitchen and human wastes, explains the operation of septic tanks, and tells how they may be constructed with home labor.

Instead of allowing body wastes to be distributed over the surface of the ground, and endanger the family's health by polluting the water supply, a septic tank takes care of wastes easily and efficiently, rendering them harmless before they are released, the bulletin says.

The first principal of efficient sewage disposal, say the college engineers, is that the flow of waste matter must be slow so that the solids will settle to the bottom. Here, if the air is excluded, they break up into smaller particles, which rise to form a scum over the top, and allow the liquid to pass through the tank.

Bacteria break the scum up still further, and the liquid is purified either by running through a system of tiles and into the soil, or through a sand filter.

Series of tanks and disposal systems for various sized families, and directions for building and maintaining them are contained in the new bulletin, which is sent free to those who ask the state agricultural college at Ithaca for E-45.

Enjoy Neighborhood Picnic.

About fifty present and former residents of school district No. 8 gathered at the home of Daniel Baker, on the Morris road, for a neighborhood picnic on July Fourth. At the noon hour a delicious luncheon was served, a proof of the culinary ability of the farmers' wives. During the afternoon games were played and racing among the younger and older generations was the cause of much pleasure. Everyone enjoyed the outing and it is sincerely hoped that the next Fourth of July will find another such jolly crowd together.
